GIANTS LOST SECOND GAME

Tannersville Team Scores 4-3 Victory Over Oneonta at Mountain Village Yesterday.

In one of the fastest games of ball seen in Tannersville this season the Mountaineers took a 4-3 victory from the Oneonta Giants yesterday. The game was featured by excellent pitching and timely hitting on the part of Tannersville. One run was the most that either team could push across in any inning, and the game was not until the last man had been retired.

Tannersville secured counters in the third, fourth, fifth and eighth, while the two of Oneonta, both made by Fitch, came in the fourth and sixth. Fitch who was on first through a fielder's choice, scored on Faye's double into deep right.

Fitch scored again in the sixth when following his double he went to third on Faye's second hit, and scored on a squeeze play.

Fortress of Vincennes to Become War Museum.

Paris.—The Vincennes fortress, just outside the walls of Paris, which withstood countless sieges and served as a prison for political offenders under Louis XIV and other Bourbons, is to become a war museum. dry spots called "islands" or "barrows" with trees on them. The water is usually clear, but for the most part has a tannin, sulphur taste.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE

The above appellation, "The Day We Celebrate," has peculiar significance in the United States over all other holidays. Some may be anniversaries, as for instance the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington, and Columbus day. Others may be devoted properly to solemn observance, as in the larger part of the United States is Decoration day. Another may be a day of Thanksgiving as the country over is now the last Thursday in November, another a day in which labor receives its fitting tribute, another one which merely marks the arbitrary beginning of that cycle, the completion of which we call a year; and another still is of most holy seeming, since it is the day of the birth of Christ. One or two of these are as important as the Fourth of July, but not one of them has the same significance, not one that marks the beginning of a series of patriotic events not yet ended but which all have to do with the birth and development of our nation.

It is above all other things seemly, therefore, that for this day all tasks not strictly necessary be laid aside, and that, the country over, there should be waving of flags, marching of citizens young and old in parade, singing of songs which long usage has made familiar, the reading of that immortal document, the Declaration, which "age does not blunt nor custom stale," the voice of patriotic orators throughout the land, and finally the illuminations after nightfall, with stars shooting upward to the darkened vault, emblematic of those fixed stars which, "forming a constellation" in our country's flag, stand each for a state in our union.

It is, it may again be repeated, a day on which to celebrate and the thing celebrated is the birth of the republic. It is not sectional, not sectarian, not individual, not memorial. It is the day which appeals to one high sentiment in the heart of every patriotic citizen! and a day which so long as the nation endures will be observed. Others may lapse from their high estate, but the Fourth of July will keep its place in the calendar of the United States, and of the world. Should it be forgotten, then, would come a fatal dawn for free humanity.

A MOBILE DEFENSE

The crossing of the continent in one day, from dawn to dark, by Lieutenant Maughan, has been acclaimed mainly as a sporting feat. It was that—a great example of skill, endurance and courage. But there is a more important feature. It is the new mode of national self-defense that Maughan's flight suggests.

"If a fleet of 100 planes should leave New York to make such a flight as yours," he was asked, "how many do you think would reach San Francisco?"

With similar conditions," he replied, "I think 75 of them would get here."

That sounds reasonable; and with the improvement of planes and facilities for long-distance flight, there should be a much larger percentage.

With such possibilities, a well prepared air fleet could be expected to reach any part of the country, from any other part, within two days. An air corps centrally located should reach any outlying spot, in emergency, in half a day. At least, the scouting and fighting and troop-carrying planes could do it, and the heavy bombers would follow.

This is an obvious line along which to develop future national defense. It fits in admirably with the increasing use of big guns mounted on motor trucks, for coast defense, instead of the old-fashioned, fixed fortress.

Future defense must be flexible and swift. And fortunately that kind of defense is the most economical type of military preparedness, calling for intelligent planning and continual alertness rather than large expenditure of money.

THE GUIDE POST—

BY
Henry and Tertius VanDyke

PEACE WITHIN

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee.—Is. 26:3

The business of the world seems to be carried on in controversy, dispute, conflict, rising at times to the actual horror of war between great nations.

No doubt all this confusion and turmoil comes from the selfishness, the ignorance, the imperfection of human nature, which theologians call "original sin."

The lover of peace is distressed and troubled by the tumult and the strife.

He longs for better things. He will not evade his duty or shrink from his part in a conflict between right and wrong.

But he cannot live happily or work powerfully without a basis of peace.

Let him find it within.

Believing that God is all-powerful and omnipotent, that Christ Jesus came to save sinners, and that love is almighty and everlasting, he has an impregnable citadel of inward peace.

Nothing can conquer or damage him.

He is a child of God.

LOCAL NOTICES

The morning ball game at Stamford will be called at 10 o'clock and the afternoon game at Neahwa park at 3 o'clock.

There will be no city or rural deliveries today from the Oneonta post office. The general delivery and stamp windows, however, will be open from 7:30 to 10 a. m.

Surveyors are at work between Oneida street and the Country club grounds and it is understood that some early development may be expected in that vicinity.

Boy Scouts who wish to secure positions by which to earn money for the summer camp, Camp Awenaga, on Gilbert lake should see M. G. Keenan at 6 Broad street.

The members of Col. Walter Scott Camp and auxiliary and their families will hold a picnic today with Mr. and Mrs. F. M. H. Jackson at Camp Oneida at Cliffside, Goodyear lake.

In addition to the list of Chautauqua guarantors carried in the Star on Wednesday it should be announced that Edward Burr of this city is disposing of the tickets issued to W. F. Eggleston.

Owing to the Democratic national convention remaining in session the Star will publish a paper on Saturday morning that its patrons may be kept informed of the latest developments there.

The Ford sedan of George Canfield of this city received a battered rear fender yesterday afternoon at the corner of Broad street when a Buick car, attempting to turn around on the corner, backed into the Ford. No one was injured and the damage was slight.

TWO BALL GAMES TODAY

Morning Struggle at Stamford and Afternoon Contest at Neahwa Park With Pittsfield Professionals.

The Pittsfield Professionals, who are booked for two games with Oneonta today, the morning game at Stamford at 10 o'clock, and the afternoon game at Neahwa park at 3 o'clock, are one of the strongest teams that will visit Oneonta this season, excepting of course the big leaguers who are coming.

It has three stellar twirlers in Murray who recently lost a 2-2 game to Kingston, "Buck" Sullivan, who defeated Chapelle Johnson's team twice last season, and Brace, one of the leading semi-professional pitchers of western Massachusetts. Disco, a former Eastern leaguer, will be at the receiving end and in the line up are a number of former college stars and some minor league players.

The locals when they play in Stamford will represent that village and will wear natty new uniforms which await them for the opening game this morning. It is quite probable that a goodly bunch of local fans will motor over to Stamford this morning and watch the forenoon struggle and likely also is it that Stamford will send over a delegation to witness the afternoon contest.

Summer School in Music.

It is understood that Frances DeVille Ball, the well-known pianist of New York city, is seriously considering establishing a summer school in music in Schenectady. This will present an unusual opportunity to musicians of Oneonta county as Miss Ball is a pupil of the famous Leichteritz of Vienna and has made a reputation for herself as an exponent of his method. A number of pupils are already registered for the summer from places as far distant as Albany and Schenectady.

Warning from Chief Horton.
Chief Horton last evening requested The Star to call attention to the danger of using blank cartridges about the city, one young man having already been injured by their use. Chief Horton says that it is illegal to sell firearms for their use unless the purchaser has a permit to carry one. The law should be strictly observed and anyone firing blank cartridges is liable to arrest unless the permit can be shown.

THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA

Rev. Dr. James C. Russell gives inspiring Presidents' Address at Meeting of Rotary Club Yesterday.

A timely and inspiring talk upon what America really means was given Oneonta Rotarians by Rev. Dr. James C. Russell at the regular weekly luncheon of the club yesterday noon, a talk which presented in convincing and interesting form facts we all know but fail to consider at times.

Dr. Russell said that America does not signify a racial unity or a geographical sub-division, but rather is an institution. A man may be French by birth, or Italian, but he is an American if he is naturalized and is swayed by the spirit of America.

What is that spirit of America? Dr. Russell asked, and answered the question by discussing several outstanding characteristics of that wonderful, subtle something which has made the United States the great and prosperous country that it is today.

Freedom is the first characteristic, Freedom, Dr. Russell said, is a compromise. There is no such thing as absolute freedom of personal action. That is license. That freedom which we prize so highly has often been abused but it still remains the cornerstone of our system of government.

The spirit of Democracy is another attribute of the spirit of America. The word Democracy means the rule of the people, but parts of the people, not the best of the people—judged by whatever standard you may—not this class or that class, but all the people. The founders of the government were at first afraid of the power of the people but Jefferson, among others, had faith in his fellow men, and that faith has been fully justified. Dr. Russell declared that it is the special interests at times seem to run the affairs of state we are at fault for permitting such a condition. We should not abdicate our throne.

The spirit of intelligence is another characteristic of America. In this connection Dr. Russell spoke of the immigration problem, declaring that intelligence and not material wealth should be the deciding factor as to whether or not a man or woman gained admission to this country. He stated that intelligence was not enough, however, and that high moral standards must prevail for 100 per cent Americanism. He said that the moral tone of the nation was not so wrong as many would like to have us believe, declaring that the criminal class in the country is but two per cent of the total.

The spirit of progress, of looking into the future and not into the past, was another characteristic put forward by the speaker. The spirit of invincibility was the last point touched upon. This is the spirit of the pioneer, of he who never says die and delights in doing the impossible. Dr. Russell mentioned many cases where America has done whatever other nations have declared to be absolutely impossible.

In conclusion Dr. Russell said that the spirit of America hovers over us today and that we should not be swayed by love of power, love of money or love of popularity but should yield our homage to the marvelous, the wonderful spirit of America.

DEDICATE NEW D. & H. COLORS

Employees and Townspeople Gather to Witness Impressive Ceremony at Round House Yesterday Afternoon.

A large gathering composed of about 250 employees and officials of the D. & H. together with a number of visitors, assembled at 3 o'clock yesterday at the round house, which is the third largest of its kind in the world, to witness the dedication of the newly acquired colors which were recently donated by the employees.

The flag, an unusually beautiful one measuring 12 by 20 feet, was presented by George Brown, who, in a short introductory address thanked not only the men who had donated the colors but those whose splendid cooperation had made the dedication ceremony possible.

While the flag was being unfurled the men who had donated the colors but those whose splendid cooperation had made the dedication ceremony possible. While the flag went slowly up its new eighty foot pole Company G played the Star Spangled Banner, after which a brief but patriotic talk was made by John Palmer. Mr. Palmer gave in an impressive manner something of the history of the flag and its several historical triumphs, principally that at Yorktown which marked the end of British rule, the ones at Lake Erie, Champlain and Saratoga which marked the freedom of the sea, the one at Gettysburg which marked the end of secession and the flag's last triumph in the World war.

Splendid music for the occasion was furnished by Company G band. Pictures of the flag were made by VanWoert the photographer.

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK—The busiest visitor to the Democratic national convention proved to be that persistent and garrulous busy-body—Dame Rumor.

The result was that the convention eclipsed all previous gatherings in the volume and scope of its gossip.

Naturally enough, this being a Smith stronghold and Smith partisans abounding on every hand, the large proportion of this gossip was of a sort calculated to build up psychological support for the candidacy of the New York governor. It constantly pictured him as growing stronger and stronger; as winning over delegates right and left, who would swing to him after the second or third ballot, as growing steadily in recognition as the one man who could sweep north, east, west and south, winning over wets and drys, kias and antikias by the persuasive powers of his pep and personality.

THE chief channel through which this Smith sentiment was sought to be improved upon the delegates was through the New York newspapers.

This was particularly true with respect to the Times and World, recognized Democratic organs, on which visiting delegates chiefly depended for their information as to how sentiment was shaping. The Smith crowd was so persistently present in the columns of these papers that one gathered the result was a foregone conclusion, that although a few perfunctory ballots would be needed to secure a unanimous and invincible nomination, the time was near when the vote would be cast and忘記.

This was the attempt to build up "sentimental psychology," the thing that was in the mind of the anti-McAdoo forces last winter when they sought to bring the convention to New York City. The idea is the strength of anti-McAdoo forces.

To which the Smith boosters replied to the former secretary of treasury and director general of railroads, fighting on their own ground, it was felt, could maneuver most effectively to block the progress of the California candidate.

The grooming of Smith, a New Yorker, as the man through whom this psychological pressure could best be applied was the next step. After Smith had been used to block McAdoo, if he couldn't be put across, then the chisel would go to the dark horse field, with John W. Davis, Balfour and Glass the New York preferences.

The big blunder in the psychological squeeze play was, "Bent McAdoo." And recognizing the utility of a female in spreading scandal and innuendo Dame Rumor was given a leading role.

EVEN Richmond Pearson Hobson, who bottled up Cervantes' feet in Santiago harbor during the Spanish-American War, by sinking the collier Merrimac across the channel, was unable to damp the flow of Smith propaganda, even with his anti-deade plank.

Hobson, after leaving the navy, became one of the leaders in the prohibition cause and played an active part in putting across the eighteenth amendment. Indeed, he claims to have introduced in the House, while he was a member from Alabama, the first proposal for a constitutional amendment against alcohol.

Now that prohibition has been made law, Hobson has turned his guns on narcotic drugs—"dope." He brought to the convention a platform plank dealing with that issue.

Reine dry and pro-McAdoo, Hobson didn't take kindly to invitations to hop aboard the Smith band wagon. That, too, he felt, was based with "dope." Not the cocaine sort, perhaps, but cocaine, morphine or heroin, but a political dope not less dangerous to Democratic well-being, and bound to rot the party to sleep next November.

To which the Smith boosters replied to the former secretary of treasury and director general of railroads, fighting on their own ground, it was felt, could maneuver most effectively to block the progress of the California candidate.

The young people will have their choice of a number of evening dances. The Goodyear lake pavilion is popular with a large number of the younger set and some from this vicinity and many from the northern part of the county will be attracted to Smalley's New Pavilion at Otego lake, where an attractive program is announced. There are in addition to Pine lake which is popular with other dances.

At Otego the Odd Fellows and the Grange have united and are staging a celebration. There will be a ball game at 10:30 o'clock between the married and single men. Athletic events will be held on River street commencing at 1 o'clock which will include a greased pig chase. At 3 p.m. there will be a ball game between Otego and Wellsbridge which will be followed by a festive parade at 5 o'clock and a display of fireworks at 8 o'clock.

Pine lake will doubtless attract its usual number of amusement seekers. There are to be performances both afternoon and evening in the theatre, with a special large offering of vaudeville stars. Dancing will follow the evening performance.

Victim of "K. K." Branding is Involved in Investigation of Torture

By Harold Matson.
(NEA Service Writer.)

Rochester, N. Y., July 3.—Could a man bring himself to inflict unbearable self-torture if he thought the evidence of it would provide an escape from financial difficulties?

The question is by no means being ignored in the investigation of the amazing experience of Nelson B. Burrows, one-legged insurance agent, who tells a harrowing tale of torture at the hands of hooded men.

Burrows mysteriously disappeared from his home here, and as mysteriously returned to it. On his forehead and chest the letters "K. K." had been burned. He was weak from exposure and hunger. His stump was raw from long walking.

He told of being kidnapped, drugged, tortured and then of dragging himself 20 miles to his home.

In face of the evidence his body bears and in face of the reputations of his accusers, the police are turning their investigation toward the man himself as well as toward the Ku Klux Klan, which organization Burrows accuses.

Burrows explains that the Klan sent him threatening letters, denouncing him for having been converted to Catholicism, and that they may have sought revenge because of his activities as a Ku Klux of the Klan.

But from Portland, Me., comes Thomas H. Flaherty, who, while Burrows handled his insurance business, who says "the story is false."

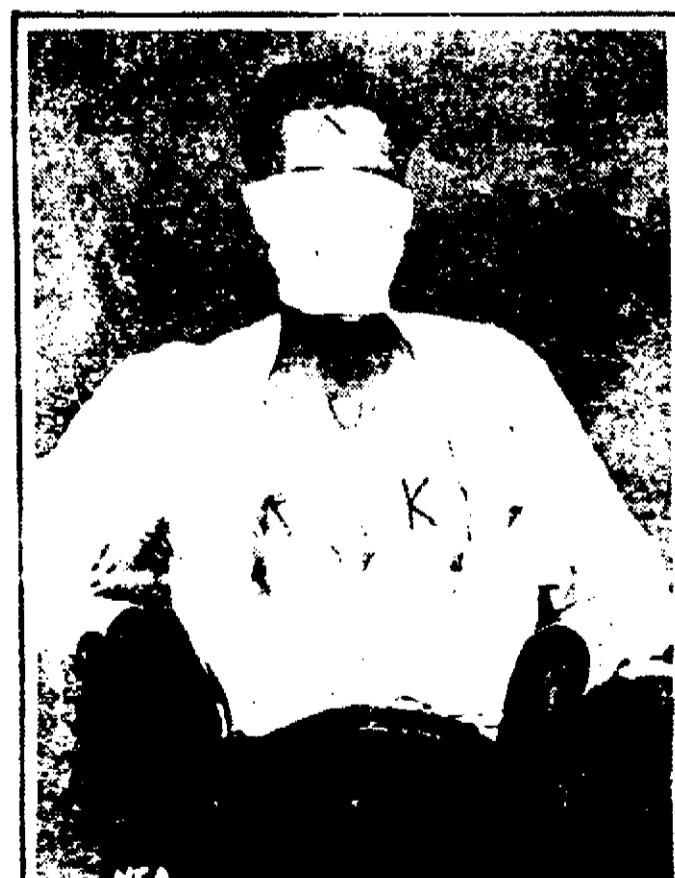

According to Flaherty, Burrows was preparing to dispose of his insurance business here. The two had made certain financial arrangements. There were a few debts. Flaherty says.

Almost too weak to walk, Burrows managed to make his way as he sat exhausted in his home.

On June 11, I had business in Dover. On the way to the station a man accosted me and asked for a cigarette. In Dover the same man, accompanied by another, approached me and we talked conversely. He asked me a word or two, and I said I would like to.

"On our way back the man in the rear said, 'Say, we have something to drink here'."

"I took a drink. It was wine. At noon immediately afterward I fell dead, and I remember little after that except that they blindfolded me

BABY SEAL IS UNDER STRICT DISCIPLINE

Mother Faithfully Instructs Young in Lore of Sea.

Minneapolis, Alaska.—Maternal discipline is as pronounced among the hair seal families as among human beings, according to men who have passed many years along the shores of Cook inlet.

From the time a baby seal is laid snugly within a bed of dry seaweed until he receives a final spanking and is directed to rustle for himself, he is subjected to unrelenting discipline.

Contrary to popular belief, a baby seal is an aquatic in the water at birth as a human baby would be. It must be taught to swim and instructed in all the lore of seal life, including how to hunt food and escape its enemies.

Charles Coach, who has made hair seal hunting a business for years, says he has watched a mother seal teaching her baby to swim. The mother would flounder out on the rockery, gather the baby under her flipper, and slip carefully into the water. Suspending the baby on her flipper, she would bark, grunt, whine and wheeble to indicate what was desired. If the baby refused to perform, it was effectively spanked with the mother's flipper. The young seal gradually learns to swim by floundering a few strokes at a time, with the mother watching it from danger every time it becomes exhausted or starts to sink.

Some of the beachcombers adopt baby seals as pets. They become as faithful as dogs, and, if one decides to banish them, are as hard to get rid of as cats. An instance was cited where a baby seal was taken out to sea in the hope that it would rejoin with its herd. About midnight there was a plaintive wail at the cabin door. Like the traditional cat, the seal had come back. He howled until he was admitted to the family circle and fed a piece of fish.

Wills All to Housekeeper and Cuts Off Family

Canden, N. J.—Ex-Judge Charles Grant Garrison of the Supreme court of New Jersey, who died at Merchantville, N. J., left his entire estate to his housekeeper, Miss Winifred Dallin of Wildwood, N. J. The personal estate was estimated at $90,000 and the value of the real estate was not set forth.

The will left nothing to Justice Garrison's widow or to any of their three children or to his brother, Lindsey M. Garrison of New York, former secretary of war. The widow, Mrs. Anna H. Garrison, who has a home at Palmer Lake, Colo., had lived apart from her husband for fifteen years.

Automatic Lighting

Small stations along the lines of big western railroads, which do not have night agents, are lighted at the approach of the train and the lights extinguished at its departure by means of automatic switches placed at short distances from the buildings.

Salt on Roads

The Bureau of public roads says that common table salt—sodium chloride—should be applied to roads in the right moisture in order to keep the roads packed and flat so that they will not become so dusty during the day.

Pick it up—take it anywhere. Always the same. No connections to make. Mark the location of each station on the dials. Turn two knobs to the spot you've marked—and you have your station. Supreme simplicity. Get the far stations on the loudspeaker—clear and true—while near stations are operating. This is an improved Super-Heterodyne—the sensation of the year! Come in to see it. Or let us demonstrate it in your home.
